Article

First, a word from Kelli Busey (one which, (1) I've made one slight grammatical correction to, and (2) even without correction in all likelihood, will be disappeared from Pam's House Blend because it is likely to bruise the sock ego of a certain decloaked puppet):

This fight is killing the LGB and transgender community. On equality maryland's facebook page their own members, the ones who haven't been deleted or banned yet, are calling Sheets out for the crushing oppression of the transgender community. Whether you're gay, (HRC) lesbian, (NGLTF) bisexual, transgender, (shill} gender queer (eqMD man in a dress} or an ally (paid lobbyist), your voice is essential to our fight for equality (oppression).

IT's all too obvious you Lureen sock puppet or whatever you are calling yourself today you are a shill also.

Transgender Marylanders are adamantly opposed to HB235 and now the GAY organizations who are shoving this down their throats!

OPRESSORS! KILLERS!! MURDEROUS GAY ORGANIZATIONS!!!

STOP this killing my people.

And speaking of the Pinocheets regime's standard operating procedure of disappearing all that disagrees with it, here's a colloquy that took place just before I started this post but was erased before I could get to this point in the post.

Lead Sponsor of HB 235, Del. Ariana Kelly: "Transgender Marylanders face profound and often crippling discrimination in housing and employment. This bill [HB 235] is an important step towards mitigating this unjust discrimination. It will improve people's lives, and it is clearly the right thing to do.

Today the House Health & Government Operations Committee in Annapolis voted 15-8 in favor of sending House Bill 235 - the Gender Identity Anti-Discrimination Act - to the house floor for consideration by the full House of Delegates.

John Flannery Quote from Morgan:

"12% have become homeless. This law is a matter of life-or-death for some Marylanders."

Too bad that 12% won't have legal protections when they try to access a shelter. Jesus, do you put your foot in your mouth on purpose???

Fail.

29 minutes ago

Equality Maryland @John - As has been stated MANY times, the attorney in charge of interpreting and enforcing our state's anti-discrimination policies has stated that shelters will be included under the housing provisions. Also, we have tried to keep this dialogue civil. No need to become caustic. We are all working towards the same end goal – making life better for gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender Marylanders.

24 minutes ago

John Flannery And as you've been asked MANY times - please provide direct and complete evidence that what you're claiming is accurate.

11 minutes ago

Jayne A Maynes @Equality Maryland, The very definition of what constitutes Housing and homeless shelters says he is lying about this. homeless shelters are public accommodations as defined in the Maryland state law, not housing as you suggest, but public accommodation. So where is the protection in HB235 that will see those 12% of the trans population who happen to be homeless?

9 minutes ago

John Flannery Residence does not include shelters - that's the way it will be interpreted when someone tries to pursue legal action against a shelter under the terms of this bill. You know it...I know it...everyone knows it.

Katrina Rose If that "attorney in charge of interpreting and enforcing our state's anti-discrimination policies" was an attorney in private practice and making such a claim to a client who would thereafter rely on such pronouncement, that attorney had better have some damn good malpractice insurance. As has ACTUALLY been proven, the most that anyone can say about homeless shelter coverage is that it is fact-specific and can only be determined on a case-by-case basis.

But, that attorney doesn't have to worry because he's not in private practice - and because, presumably, said attorney is not trans...you know, the same reason that you clowns at 'Equality' Maryland (just as Maryland's gay elite did in 2001) can make unsupportable, laughable, outlandish claims is that you know you will never have to pay the price - politically or practically - when they're shown to be bullshit.

Apparently, Maryland transphobes still haven't gotten the hint that people are able to keep records (what I've included here are JPG screensnaps off of the PDF file that I dumped of the 'Equality' Maryland Facebook page; unfortunately my comment was bifurcated by a pagebreak - hence the interrupting letters) of what transpires on the Internet.

This is what that thread looks like now:

We continue to acknowledge that work must be done to ensure not only that public accommodations are protected in Maryland law, but that many other critical areas are reformed for the benefit of the transgender community and that if HB 235 is signed into law that it is fully and appropriately enforced. For now, we celebrate this huge step forward and keep up the fight to see this through!

I hope you don't think that no one saved screen snaps of the colloquy in which you, yet again, refuse to acknowledge that your theory about homeless shelters is even more fraudulent and empty as the 2001 theory of general trans coverage was.

Okay, since I'm being critical, I have to fess up and acknowledge that I made a grammar boo boo. My comment to the first post-disappeared version of that thread should have read:

I hope you don't think that no one saved screen snaps of the colloquy in which you, yet again, refuse to acknowledge that your theory about homeless shelters is even more fraudulent and empty than the 2001 theory of general trans coverage was.

Unlike 'Equality' Maryland, I have no problem admitting when I make a mistake.

And 'Equality' Maryland keeps making 'em - like continuing to disappear reality-based comments and apparently continuing to think that no one keeps track.
