

TRANSADVOCATE

Tipping Point On RadFem Transphobia?

By monica_roberts

Published January 17, 2013 | Updated March 31, 2026

https://www.transadvocate.com/tipping-point-on-radfem-transphobia_n_8298.htm

Abstract

The British Transphobic Feminist Troika unleashed their hate speech upon the world last week probably thinking they would get pushback from the trans community they and their acolytes could spin and demonize them with until it quickly blow over. Not this time. This time it isn't just our British trans cousins who are pissed off about the transphobic [...]

Article

The British Transphobic Feminist Troika unleashed their hate speech upon the world last week probably thinking they would get pushback from the trans community they and their acolytes could spin and demonize them with until it quickly blow over.

Not this time.

This time it isn't just our British trans cousins who are pissed off about the transphobic scribblings. They got reinforcements from various trans bloggers around the world and pushback from the surprising direction offeminists, allies and other justice minded folks tired of the radfem transphobia making them, their nation and their movement look bad.

All I can say is thanks and what took y'all so long?

It also leads me to ask this question concerning the international kerfluffle that has been stirred up on the Net by the Transphobic Feminist Troika. Is this a tipping point sign that like the trans community, feminists are also tired of the transhate speech that has been said in their names for over 40 years?

We transpeeps can only hope that's exactly what is happening, but only time will tell in that regard. We still have radfems on this side of the Pond who revel in spouting hate speech on a regular basis

Are we going to see this year and from now on serious efforts to root out the cancer of transphobia in feminism, or is feminism just going to go back to business as usual, decry it in private and allow the radical feminists around the world to continue pushing trans hatred in their name?

Figure 1. hate

Suggested citation

monica_roberts. "Tipping Point On RadFem Transphobia?." TransAdvocate, January 17, 2013.
https://www.transadvocate.com/tipping-point-on-radfem-transphobia_n_8298.htm